STRESS

Have you ever tried to find a needle in a hay stack? What about looking for your car keys that you just had in your hand? What about that missing sock or shoe under your bed? How 'bout looking for a misplaced bill that is due to be paid and postmarked today?

Sometimes we find ourselves stressing out over something that is missing right when we need it the most. The fact that we need that item five minutes ago makes the search more difficult. The point is that in this fun game we call life, there will be circumstances that happen and bring us stress. The question for all of us to ponder is , 'how are we going to handle the stress?'

The beginning of a new year offers us hope and possibilities, but sometimes the new year can bring us stress (especially when we get the credit card bill from Christmas gifts). This month, most of our youth will be taking their semester ending exams and perhaps have had to deal with some type of stress. Now granted, most teenagers love taking , and if they had their choice would take exams every day! But there are a few youth that at times feel some stress as they prepare for the exams, try to remember everything they learned as they take their exams, and then feel the stressful hope as they await their final grades.

This past week during one of my devotion times, I discovered something about myself and stress. Most of the time the spiritual formula (the way one interacts with God) would be worship, wait, and work. We worship God at church, during our devotion and prayer times, during specific times and places that we set aside for that purpose. Then sometimes we recognize the busyness and stress that is in our lives, so we set aside times to wait, times to be still, to be refueled, and times to rest in God's presence. As Christians, we need the worship and wait times to keep us going; they are important to our spiritual lives and development.

Then we have our work time. This is the time where we do our daily thing, whether it may be school, our job, our family time, basically the day-to-day routine. It is during the busy work time that stress enters our life. I have discovered that because I have already put aside specific times with God, I am not intentional about looking for God during my work times. But if my most stressful times come during work, do I not need God more? Perhaps I am too busy worrying about all the details and stuff to recognize my need for God. Hopefully, you can be challenged as I have to look for God amongst the work and our daily routines. Perhaps if we open our eyes more we can catch a glimpse of God during those stressful and busy times. It may seem like looking for a needle in a hay stack, but it also may help us to find that needle if we give God our work time as well.

Peace and joy to all as we begin this New Year.

God bless,
Matt

Upcoming Sermon Series -- When You're AT the End of Your Rope

"When Elijah saw how things were, he ran for dear life to Beersheba, far in the south of Judah. He left his young servant there and then went on into the desert another day's journey. He came to a lone broom bush and collapsed in its shade, wanting in the worst way to be done with it all—to just die: 'Enough of this, God! Take my life—I'm ready to join my ancestors in the grave!'" 1 Kings 19:3-4

It is here we find Elijah—tired, depressed, ready to quit—at the end of his rope! Someone who, just days before, had been so strong, healthy, and vibrant, is now a stressed-out, burned-out shell of a prophet. "Have you ever collapsed under a proverbial broom bush? Tired? Stressed? Burned out? Depressed? Ready to give up? The good news is that Elijah's despair and burn out are not the end of the story. The fact is, Elijah eventually recovered. Over the next six weeks, we are going to look at Elijah's journey from burnout to balance. We will explore those steps that God led Elijah to follow on his journey toward wholeness. Six steps that can help us either overcome burnout, or even prevent it altogether.

January 6 "You deserve a Break Today" - Elijah took some time off. Every person needs to take a break, to withdraw from the battle, and to recover and regroup. It may not sound very spiritual, but Elijah's first step toward renewal was simply to stop and take some time off.

January 13 "She Treats Her Body like a Temple" - Elijah took care of his body. If you look carefully at this text, you will see that Elijah slept, ate, and exercised. Stewardship of the body is critical to becoming whole again.

January 20 "Silence is Golden" - Elijah found strength from God. Regardless of how strong we may think we are, no one is truly self-sufficient. We all need spiritual resources and disciplines in our daily lives.

January 27 "I Get By With a Little Help from My Friends" - Elijah got help from others. Elijah realized that he could not go at it alone. Needing help, he enlisted the support of another prophet named Elisha. In order to be whole, all of us need help from our friends.

February 3 "Put On a Happy Face" - Elijah adjusted his attitude. In this story Elijah was far too negative. He said "Lord, I'm the only faithful person in Israel." God said, "Elijah, your math is off by thousands. Quit being so negative, see the positives, and adjust your attitude."

February 10 "Shower the People" - Elijah returned to service. After being renewed physically, spiritually, relationally, mentally, and emotionally, Elijah went back to service. And in his service he found further healing.

WORDS TO PONDER AS WE BEGIN A NEW YEAR WITH JESUS

Draw Nigh to the Manger -- "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to men on whom His favor rests." Luke 2:14

Christmas Day has come and gone. The world settles back down into rhythm. The parties are over. The sweet memories are packed away. The Baby has entered the world; love renewed in the hearts of many. Did you get close enough to the manger to see anything? Or did you stay a "safe distance away from it? Were you just worshipping from afar, traditions and familiarity creating a "good feeling" temporarily, and now in the afterglow, there is a longing? Come back to the stable. Enter, now the crowds have gone. Now it is just the Baby and you. Peep in and adore Him. Worship this Child, Who came into this world to save us from our sins. Realize the boundaries He had to endure to gain your attention. Let your gratitude wash over you and spill out in praise. In this holy place, God will fill your heart with peace. Don't miss the blessing of the nativity. He became like us so we could know and love Him. Don't rush away. Linger in His presence.

Touch His soft cheek. Trace His brow. Let His fingers curl around yours. Dare to pick Him up and hold Him against your chest. Feel His breath and His heartbeat. Remember what He endured for you. The thorns tore His brow. His hands were nailed to the crucifixion cross. He now holds you against His chest. His breath is the Holy Spirit moving in your heart. And His heartbeat -- you are His heartbeat. His love pulses in regular rhythm, constant and life-giving through your soul. Remember. Remember.

What difference will this encounter make in your life this year? The New Year is just days away. As you step further away from Nativity, back into the hustle and bustle of your normal life, what was imprinted in your heart? Did His love so affect you that you will forever look for people and places to offer His love back to Him? Is His peace so engraved in your mind that, from this day on. Your serenity will be unshakable? Has His joy transformed your attitude so that it will last past the long, dark nights of winter and the cold reality of each new morning? Did the promise you saw in that Infant's face give you hope that will really last your lifetime? Will you glorify and praise God for all the things you have heard and seen this Advent season? "Joy to the World, the Lord has come," is more than just a song. It is a life choice. What did you expect? It is not too late to receive your blessing from Christ that will forever change your perspective. Ask.

Reflection: What blessing did you receive that will last this year, perhaps through eternity?

Begin the New Year in Sunday School with a community of believers, worshipping the Savior. See you there!
